NICK AND MARIE KOLYNCHUK

submitted by Pearl Banash

Nick met and married Marie Tkachuk of Atikokan, Ont. They settled on the Ashfield Road in the Kirkness area.

Nick worked at the Cordite plant in Transcona for 4 years between 1941-1945, while Marie kept their farm going.

In 1942, Nick bought a threshing machine with his father. They were very few machines in the district, so Nick threshed for a lot of the people.

Cooking for a threshing gang included a breakfast at 6 AM, dinner, afternoon brunch and a supper after dark, around 8 o'clock. There usually were 12 men in a threshing gang.

Nick also became a general insurance agent in 1945.

In 1947, Nick and Marie bought Nick Pazuik's general store. With a lot of hard work, this store became a very prosperous business. They sold groceries, dry goods, hardware and fuel.

Marie also kept a large vegetable garden and a couple of cows.

Nick and Marie have many fond memories of their friends and good times.

In 1962, their property was expropriated for the floodway. They moved to Winnipeg where they presently reside.

Nick and Marie have one daughter, Pearl.

In July, 1955, Pearl married Ed Banash of Walkleyburg. Ed is the youngest son of Walter and Mary Banash. Pearl and Ed lived with her parents for 2 years. Then they moved to the house on the neighbouring lot.

They have three children, Kim, Darren and Cynthia.

In the spring of 1962, they moved to Winnipeg.

In October, 1980, Kim married Dennis Petaski. Dennis is the oldest son of Casimer and Mary Petaski. Kim and Dennis presently reside in the Lockport area.

Darren is with the R.C.M.P. and is stationed in Balcarres, Saskatchewan.

Cynthia is attending the River East Collegiate and is presently living at home.

MIKE AND MARY KOLYNCHUK

submitted by Mike Kolynchuk

I am Mike, the fifth child, youngest of the boys, of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Kolynchuk. Born at Kirkness, Man. in October of 1921, much of my childhood was spent attending Ashfield School and working on my parents market garden farm.

I obtained my driving license in 1936, and enjoyed delivering vegetables to Winnipeg. Although I spent my summers working on my parents farm, I looked forward to finding work for the winter months.

In the winter of 1941, I travelled to Sudbury, Ont., where I worked for International Nickel. In 1942, after being rejected from the army for medical reasons, I spent the winter working for the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting in Flin Flon, Man. In the winter of 1944, I worked for the Canada Packers soap plant in Toronto.

I met my wife, Mary Hunka, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Kerylo Hunka of Trentham, Man., in July of 1944. We later married in October of 1944, and were blessed with a son on our first anniversary.

In 1946, my family and I moved in with my parents, and lived together for eight years in the Melrose district. My parents retired from the farm in 1952 and moved to Gonor, Man. John, my older brother, and I purchased the farm from our parents, and grew grain, potatoes, livestock, and vegetables for market. We also purchased another farm in Highland district in 1958. With the exception of the winter of 1963, in which I worked for Bridge and Tank in Winnipeg, my time has been devoted to my family and farm.

I have two lovely children, a son, Gerry, born in October, 1945, and a daughter, Adrienne, born in December, 1960.

Gerry, born in the Kirkness district, married Joan Ritchie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Ritchie of Narol, in 1970. They have a daughter, Lynn Joan, born October 5, 1972. Gerry attended school in Ashfield, Highland, and Selkirk, as well as taking accounting at the University of Manitoba. He is employed as controller of Stewart N. King. Gerry and his family presently live on Henderson Highway.

Our daughter Adrienne attended Happy Thought and Lord Selkirk Schools in Selkirk, Man. She then attended the Red River Community College in Winnipeg, and is employed as an accountant for Barber Ellis Company. In July, of 1983 she married Kevin Zaborniak, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Zaborniak of Winnipeg.

I am proud to be a part of the heritage of the Kirkness district, as it has given me and my family many memories over the years.

Ksenia Kolton and her husband Karol came to Canada in 1904. Karol passed away in 1943 and Ksenia died Feb. 18, 1964 at the age of 97 years. Their son Anthony died in 1924.

Karol kept an apiary of some 25 hives constructed in the Ukrainian fashion as well as chickens.

In the 1921 listing of voters it shows Anton and Mary Kolton living on Lot 259 and Charles and Kranka Kolton living on Lot 260.

A man's story unfolds from past events, progressively interacting, to produce his future.

Michael Komadowski, my father, better known as Mike, was born in January, 1915, in war-torn Belzec, a small community in rural Poland, near the Russian-Ukrainian border. Although this village is somewhat modernized today, traces of the earlier 1900's, such as a few straw thatched roofs and crowded living conditions can still be found. Warm sounds of laughter and cheerful calls of 'dzien dobry' can still be heard despite the memories of Austrian, German, and Russian armies passing en route so many times. It was this fairly insignificant village that Mike with his mother, two sisters, and two brothes, left for Manitoba in the 1920's.

The end of W.W. I had brought independence to a united Poland, whose territories had been bound to Germany, Austria, and Russia for over a century. Pilsudski's post war government had divided large landed estates, aided economic growth, and promoted public education. However, the new prosperity had not significantly touched the small villages. Bells of prosperity rang elsewhere.

Thus, in 1927, Mike's father, Albert left Gdansk, Poland by ship to Montreal. He was to pave the way for the rest of the family. Mike and the rest of the family landed in Halifax a year later. They took the train to Beausejour where John Lubilanecki drove them by horse team to meet Mike's father. They stayed with the Michael Chorney family for a short time after which time they bought land on present day Lawrence Hastman's farm. The great beginning was soon to be repressed as the dirty 30's took their land. Mike and his family moved to another farm in the Greenwich area.

Mike, being the eldest, had to help make the family's new life in Canada a success. He had to recommence his education at the Grade I level in Canada although he had already received some schooling in Poland, where he had learned to read and write in Polish and Ukrainian. At the Greenwich school he learned to read and write in English. Economic times of the 30's forced him into the work force at the early age of 13 and destined his life to the agricultural world.

For a short time he worked at the Joseph Modrzejewski farm. A government plan existed whereby the employer and employee were each paid $5.00 in hopes of improving employment. In 1936, independent of government work plans, Mike worked for the Jim Nelson farm. Farm technology was not that advanced as Mike worked with both oxen and horse.

In the early 1940's Mike divided his time between his parents' farm in the summer and other jobs in the winter. He was employed in lumber camps and at the Selkirk Steel Mill. However, life was not all grim and grime.

Michael Komadowski

Rural life was extremely sociable. Your neighbor was your friend, your partner in discussion, and one with whom you shared good times visiting and socializing at house parties. Most often there was a willing musician. Great amounts of money were not needed to keep your life happily entertained. Your feet were usually your transportation to a social gathering.

Quite often Mike walked cross country to visit Katherine Shumilak whom he married on May 15, 1943. Katherine was born in the Seabright area in 1921 to Anton and Katherine Shumilak. The family have moved to Mayfield in the 1920's. Mike and Katherine resided on the present day farm place which they had rented from Anna Panisko from 1944-46. In May, 1946 they purchased the farm.

As the post war period saw changes in the western agricultural world, Mike saw his six horses transform into a Cockshutt 60 tractor with steel wheels, his binder into a swather, and threshing machine into a combine. His farm was his pride and despite changes he kept two beautiful horses until the 1960's for sentimental reasons. Farm improvement as only a farmer could understand was important but not at all costs. In the early 1950's he began to improve his stock with purebred Herefords. All this came about with help from extra jobs. In the late 1950's he worked at the Steam Plant and with Hydro.

He was a school trustee for the Mayfield School District from the mid 1950's until 1965. He was also a member of the Manitoba Farmer's Union and of the Agricultural Society.

He was the only son to maintain ties with an agricultural background. He loved his farm and was always willing to help others. By the late 1960's Mike and Katherine were enjoying a fine Canadian life. In the 1970's they returned twice to their ancestral Poland. However the farm which gave Mike his life also took it away in a farm accident in October, 1974.

So many times I had heard his stories, but I wish he were here to refine the details to help us remember with a better understanding. Nonetheless, a man's story continues with the future.

Carol, the only daughter, was born in 1946, and is married to McLeod Fiddler of Island Lake. They reside in Selkirk. Carol is a B.A. and B.ED. graduate of the University of Manitoba. McLeod is employed by the Federal Department of Employment and Immigration. They have three daughters, Melissa, Julie, and Janine, who love their grandma, Katherine, dearly.

FRANK AND GISELA (GAY) KOMADOWSKI

Frank Komadowski, the son of Albert and Anna Komadowski (nee: Rudzinski) was born in a small farming community called Belsec located N.E. of Lvov, Poland near the old Polish-Russian frontier. He was born on Sept. 26, 1921, the same year the Polish constitution was drafted and the year before the assassination of President Gabrjel Narutowicz. This proved to be a turbulent time for Poland.

His Uncle Kasmir Rudzinski, a general inspector for one of the large Polish banking institutions warned Frank's father of the impending economic and political problems the country would be facing in the immediate future. He also warned of War. Frank's mother Anna and his sisters Jean and Sophie, along with his brothers Michael and Kasmir, left Danzig, the present day Port of Gdansk. After an arduous journey, they arrived in Montreal in April of 1928. His father Albert had come over a year earlier. The family was united and settled on a farm near Tyndall in Manitoba, and were soon blessed with 2 children, Joe and Johnnie. Frank still has vivid memories of those early years and the extremely hard work on his parents' farm. Oxen were used in the fields instead of horses as they were cheaper to feed and only cost $15 each. Canada was in a state of depression from 1929 to 1939 and life for the Komadowski family proved to be difficult and frustrating.

Historians consider the year 1941 to be the most crucial year of the Second World War. Hitler's German armies invaded Yugoslavia, Greece and finally in June they attacked the Soviet Union. In Dec. that year the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbour. In late Dec. of 1941, Frank Komadowski enlisted in the Canadian Armed Forces, as had many of his friends. Besides the patriotic aspect, army life offered Frank and his comrades a challenge, a chance to travel and a type of security from the depression. Frank received his basic training in Manitoba and his advanced combat training and instructions at Red Deer, Alberta. After a short leave Frank was prepared for overseas duty. However, tragedy struck and Frank was hospitalized in Alberta with a severe case of Pneumonia which left him in a weakend state and a heart ailment due to Rheumatic Fever. Frank spent two months in the hospital before being released from active duty. Within a few months Frank found himself overseas enduring the aerial bombardment of England. The Allied Forces invasion of Europe was launched on June 6, 1944 (D-Day) and the British and Canadian part of his offensive drove east through France to capture Caen, then turned north, following the coastal regions, towards Antwerp, Belgium. By late Nov. of 1944 the Second Canadian Army was engaged in the battle for Nijmegen in N.E. Holland near the German frontier. It was here late one night returning to his unit riding with his Norton's headlights off that Frank Komadowski collided with a truck. Frank sustained serious injury and was hospitalized for four months.

After hostilities ceased in Europe on May 8, 1945 this left Komadowski with three choices. Either he could transfer to service in the Far East, do occupational duties in Germany or be demobilized and return to Canada. Before the necessary arrangements could be made for Frank's transfer to the Far East theatre, atomic bombs were dropped on Japan and the war ended on August 14, 1945. Frank had to settle for his second choice and was assigned to occupational duty with the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps (RCASC) stationed at Oldenburg, Germany. Frank's army work was hauling military supplies between Hannover and Oldenburg, west of Bremen, a return journey of over 300 kilometers.

The Canadian Wives Bureau was established less than one year later and it was Frank's new job with the 48th. Transport to drive the wives of Canadian Servicemen from France, Belgium and Holland to their embarkation points, Antwerp and Hook of Holland. From there they sailed to England and eventually were united with their husbands in Canada. This was a duty Frank enjoyed. He also watched with interest and some sadness the slow reconstruction of the war ravaged Berlin. Little did the Canadian soldier know that his destiny would be shaped in that divided city.

Frank received his Honourable Discharge in 1947 and remained in Berlin attached to the Canadian Military Mission (CMM) a branch of the diplomatic corps of External Affairs of the Government of Canada. While in this position Frank did Chauffeur duties and was entrusted with an international driver's license that provided his entry into 26 countries. He also served as interpreter while attached to the CMM and during his 6 years of active military duty and the 4 years with External Affairs, Frank was honoured and recognized by receiving five distinguished service medals.

The Canadian Military Mission located in Berlin was under the Command of a Lt. General, Maurice Pope, a distinguished gentleman and career soldier, who was laying the ground work and organization for the Canadian Embassy which was to be located there once the Peace Treaty with Germany was ratified. The Treaty of Peace and related Conditions was not signed until 1949.

During his assignments with General Pope in Berlin, Frank had the honour of receiving high praise and commendation for quick action and bravery while on duty. General Pope wrote to his Chief of External Affairs in Canada (Hon. Lester B. Pearson) on July 12, 1947 that "I cannot too highly commend to you the plucky conduct of Mr. Frank Komadowski" ... what he was referring to was an interesting episode involving a stolen Jeep belonging to the HQ group, whereby Frank gave chase in what can best be described as "hollywood style" apprehending the driver and the return of the stolen equipment. When questioning Frank about this adventure, he admits to high speeds and many corners turned on two wheels before successful apprehension of the stolen jeep. Frank had many such adventures while attached to the CMM that bordered on the spectacular.

Frank met his wife to be, Gisela (Gay) Jahn at a German Social Club located a short distance from his Military Mission Headquarters. Gisela was the daughter of Fritz and Herta Jahn, both long time residents of that country. From their meeting that day in the spring of 1949, Frank burned up the German telephone lines calling Gisela (Gay) from distant points like Baden Baden, Munich or Kassel, depending where his missions and assignments posted him.

Gisela and Frank were married at Marienkirche, Bergheimer Platz, Schmargendorf, Berlin on March 25, 1950. The wedding was a very formal affair with the Bride and Groom having a Coach and Six complete with liveried retinue and uniformed attendants. They honeymooned in Bonn for 2 months and then Boarded the Empress of Canada and sailed for Canada, arriving in May, 1950. Returning to his native Manitoba, the Komadowski's settled in East Selkirk by June of the same year. Very soon afterwards Frank was employed with the Manitoba Rolling Mills in the Town of Selkirk, a position he would literally fill for the next several decades, retiring officially on June 30, 1982.

Frank and Gay purchased 4 acres of land in East Selkirk, Lot 9, Colville Road. Here they built a modern 3-bedroom bungalow and 2-car garage in 1954 to house them and their two children. The first child born to them was a daughter on July 14, 1951 who they christened Patricia Gail Rita Komadowski. On April 24, 1953 their son Albert was born. Both children attended the Happy Thought School in East Selkirk.

The year 1959 was a very eventful year for Frank Komadowski. He was appointed Postmaster for East Selkirk in May, and a few months later he constructed a facility to serve as Post Office for the community he served. The same year he was elected to the position of Trustee on the School Board of the Happy Thought School. This was a very busy period in Frank's life, with the combined responsibilities of the postal facility, Trustee duties, full time at the Rolling Mills and added to this he served on the Board of Directors of the Royal Canadian Legion, Selkirk Branch No. 42. If this wasn't enough, Frank decided to launch into another venture, private enterprise.

Always very much aware of community needs, Frank could see the feasibility of a quick service dry-cleaning facility for the surrounding area. He felt that a dry-cleaning and laundromat service would be combined to fill the need, and that the Town of Selkirk could use a business such as this. This innovating concept was the deciding factor in the Komadowski's purchasing the Selkirk Laundromat. After much extensive renovations and building alterations, they opened a new business in town called the Gay-Day Laundry and Dry Cleaning, located on Main St. in Selkirk. It became a family operation. Young Patricia, now 15 and a student at the Selkirk Collegiate, and Albert, age 13, attending Happy Thought School, both assisted with the business venture. The business grew and became quite profitable.

With the profits from the sale of the Gay-Day Laundry in 1971, Frank Komadowski was then ready for his next business venture.

Within the Town of Selkirk convenience stores were non-existent because of the town's restrictive by-laws covering closing hours for local business. Frank found that this type of legislation was impeding the progress of the urban centre, and decided to take steps to rectify the situation. He advertised in the Selkirk Enterprise, drawing the restrictive by-law to the attention of the community and business centre, and by questionnaire, invited the residents to respond. It was hoped that by this type of consensus poll, that the results would prove conclusively that changes to the town by-laws would have to be made if Selkirk was to progress and expand.

Overwhelming support for repeal of the closing hours by-law was forthcoming from the business and town-people. This forced Council to act and on April 26, 1972, Mayor Frank Malis cast the deciding vote, when the Council split on the decision, and it was in favor of change.

This gave Komadowski the support he needed to take the next step. Credit Foncier advanced him 75% of the necessary funding to construct a shopping centre, and Frank proceeded to do just that. On the first day of Spring, 1973 the Arena Plaza Shopping Centre was open for business and Selkirk had its first convenience store within the complex. It was a bold venture brought about by a lot of determination and the will to succeed, and it also paved the way for a much larger undertaking. He wanted to create a shopping complex, complete with an indoor Mall, similar to that popular in the larger urban centres within the province. Komadowski, during his 22 years residency within Manitoba, had built up a fine credit rating and was therefore able, along with his business partners, to borrow the banking funds needed to build another larger shopping centre. The partnership was so arranged so that Frank retained 50% undivided interest and share in this newest adventure in business.

The Selkirk Town Plaza in 1975 with 20 stores housed within a 90,000 Sq. Ft. area, complete with something else the town had lacked up to that point, adequate parking facilities for the customers it was to service. Right from the day it opened, this large complex has the right to be termed a resounding success. Both the Town Plaza and the Arena Plaza generate about 250 jobs and provide the town with much needed additional tax revenue amounting to about $145,000 per assessment.

This drive and will to succeed led Frank to maintain a hectic pace that soon took its toll on his health. The added stress and pressure of business activated an old ailment that had troubled Frank on occasion back to his army days and his lengthy stay in hospital back in 1942 in Red Deer, Alberta. In late February of 1977 Frank had a relatively serious heart attack that left him hospitalized for quite a period of time. This was followed by a series of further heart problems that caused much concern and resulted in the medical advisors recommending that only open heart surgery could prevent a fatal attack. Frank consented and major surgery was performed in January, 1980 and was deemed successful, after a lengthy stay in hospital.

Since that time, Frank has had to restrict his commercial activities and restrain his business and social life, somewhat. However, he continues to be very involved with the day to day operation of his enterprise.

In 1982 he removed his permanent residency across the river to the Town of Selkirk, having purchased the home of Dr. W.S. Reid on 342 Eveline St. where he immediately set about doing extensive interior decorating. Frank has retained his former East Selkirk home and acreage, and leases it annually.

Of the children, Patricia pursued her education in Selkirk and went on to a career in the Civil Service, finally moving to Alberta where she now enjoys a career in banking. Albert, after his Selkirk schooling, pursued his own interests and now resides in Winnipeg.

Frank's father, Albert passed away in 1969, and Anna passed away ten years later, in 1979.
